

Greetings and welcome to FYLA:

Thank you for visiting us. My name is Ismael Almazán and I have been enjoying the enormous privilege of being FYLA 's CEO since 2014.

During the last years, FYLA has gone from being a small deep-tech start-up, to becoming a technological reference in ultrafast fiber lasers.

We have clients all over the world, in multiple sectors such as Lifesciences, Semiconductors and Optical Communications.

Our lasers find application in metrology and inspection, advanced processing, medical imaging and fundamental science, always alongside the great scientific initiatives of small and large companies and leading research groups in academia.

Nevertheless, what matters most to us is knowing how we can help our clients to take a step further in their projects based on models that take advantage of the full potential of our technology.

Ask us, challenge us.
We are here to help you."
